Subject: Urgent Request to Pass Communication to the UK Prime Minister Regarding UK and International Crimes Against the People

Dear Secretary of State,

I am writing to you with great urgency to request that you pass on the attached letter and case history to the Prime Minister of the United Kingdom as a matter of national and international importance. The concerns outlined in the attached communication pertain to serious violations of law that affect not only the people of the Scotland but also the United Kingdom, as this also has far-reaching international implications.

Despite previous attempts to engage with the relevant authorities, including but not limited to, Police Scotland, government officials and the judiciary. I have been met with a lack of response or appropriate action. The matters raised include violations of fundamental human rights, breaches of common law, and acts that contravene both domestic and international legal frameworks.

As the Secretary of State for Scotland, you hold a position of responsibility to ensure that grave concerns affecting the rights, freedoms, and well-being of the people are addressed at the highest level of government. Therefore, I request that you formally acknowledge receipt of this
